What About You?

Hi Friend

Okay, all this time I have been writing about myself. You know my name: Aubrey E. Drummond.

You know my profession as a Writer, Poet.

Furthermore, you even know a little bit about me. (You know, all that crap I've been writing about myself-- these last few months.)

So, now it's time to share. Getting to know someone is a two-way street. I know nothing about you, dear reader. Hell, I don't know if anyone even reads the drivel I write here. (I could be just talking [or writing?] to myself.) I don't know if you really like the poetry I write or just being polite.

So now is the time, dear reader, to share with me your likes, your dislikes. Whether you read my stuff, or don't. Whether you plan on buying my books, or just like to get them for free, (cause seriously, why buy it when you can get it for free), poetry that is. I mean, who buys poetry books other than a crazy guy like me.

I'm just asking you to send me your thoughts. Let me know that I'm not writing to the airless wind. That somebody out there actually gives enough of a crap to let me know they're there. Just in case you didn't know, it gets lonely here, writing to myself.

Oh yeah, you can find my email address at the bottom of this newsletter.

I have completed reading two books, Jericho Brown's The Tradition and Alive At The End of The World by Saeed Jones. Both books I felt were similar or maybe I am just getting them mixed up in my mind. (Teaches me not to read two books before I do a review on the first.) One of the authors truly misses his mother, the other misses his lover. You may want to give them a read to see which one I'm talking about.

Let me know who you like reading and why, drop me a line. As stated above, my email address is at the bottom of this newsletter.

As you may know from last month, I mention that I'm working on my fifth book of poetry called 'Hello Stranger'. Well, it's published now, and available on Amazon.

Last month I also told you about my 'Inside the Circle of the Sun' series. I've gathered all my previous books together into a series, available on Amazon. Here's the link.

I will be offering Boy Kant You Read! in a Free Book promo on Amazon from May 2nd to May 6th this month.

There may be some other deals in the works, I just haven't made arrangements yet. If I have new promotions, I will inform you in a special announcement edition.

Just as a reminder, I'm giving away a free book to those who joined my newsletter. If you haven't received yours yet-- well, to get 'Nothing' (🔗) just use the link below.

That's all folks, and as always,

Thank you

AUB
